ABSTRACT

A system is described, and the corresponding method, for the management of emergency situations by means of a mobile terminal (1) with an electronic card (2), adapted to implement access functions to a mobile phone network and comprising memory areas (23), containing personal data of the owner of said electronic card (2).

The invention consists in that said electronic card (2) has aid functions which make it at least partially operative when said mobile terminal operates in an emergency state.

DESCRIPTION

The invention concerns a system, and the corresponding method, for the management of emergency situations by means of a mobile terminal.
